

Alfonza's Supper Club

Harrington Community

Forks clatter, people chatter and liquored laughter splatters onto wood paneled walls where it sticks like grease on a fry-house backsplash. The Friendly Stars stroll among the tables, borrowing the melody of a soul-saving hymn to sing the praises of Southern soul food. "Just a bowl of butter beans," they harmonize to the tune of "Just A Closer Walk With Thee." No chain could ever replicate the charm of Alfonza's Olde Plantation Supper Club in the Harrington Community, famed for its steaks and seafood. Gone but not forgotten.
